GOLF TIP: FAIRWAY WOODS

With a fairway wood, you want the club to sweep the turf as it approaches the ball. Address the ball with light grip pressure, and relax your forearms and shoulders. Position the ball forward in the stance one to two inches inside the left heel. A wide stance will allow a full turn of the upper body. Swing the club away low and slow on the backswing and also keep the club head low through impact. You will not need to help the ball into the air. Let the loft of the club do the work for you. A lofted fairway wood may be a great replacement for one of your long irons!
