MERCHANDISE PRODUCT OF THE MONTH: SCOTTY CAMERON SPECIAL SELECT PUTTERS

Scotty Cameron putters are designed with the finest materials and designed to perform at the highest level. The newest releases of Special Select putters includes four models: the Fastback 1.5, Del Mar, the new GOLO 6, and GOLO 6.5. The new Super Select 2023 putters have new blade and mid-mallet designs, revamped neck styles, refined shapes, new milling techniques, improved multi-material construction, and weight distribution. The new i-beam hosel removes weight from the neck of the putter, and repositions weight into the toe and heel to improve forgiveness. Weights in the sole are made from either stainless steel or tungsten to optimize weighting distribution. Scotty Cameron putters purchased at full price receive 2 sleeves of Titleist Pro V1 golf balls. For any additional questions regarding Scotty Cameron putters, please contact Titleist Staff Member and our Assistant General Manager Cesar Balgannon at cesar.balgannon@casinodelsol.com.

SMALL THINGS MAKE A BIG DIFFERENCE

There are many small things golfers can do to help the course play and look better. The small things will free up our maintenance staff for more essential work. Pick up broken tees to help prevent damage to mower reels. Bunker rakes should be placed outside the bunker in the line of golf ball flight. Avoid taking divots on your practice swing. When putting on the practice green, avoid standing in one place for extended periods so there is no damage caused to the green. Chip to the chipping green, rather than chipping to the practice putting green. When driving your golf cart, avoid following the same path of the carts before you. Place trash in containers and do not overfill the containers to prevent trash from blowing across the course. If an irrigation leak is spotted out on the course, contact the golf shop or let a maintenance staff member know about the leak. Informing our staff will allow the leak to be fixed before damage occurs from traffic through the area.

WEDGE BOUNCE

Wedge bounce is the angle created between the leading edge and the lowest point of the sole or the trailing edge. A club's bounce can help it glide through the sand, or keep it from digging into the turf. Bounce provides forgiveness on all wedge shots and allows you to strike the ball properly even if you make mistakes. The best bounce for your wedge depends on your swing type and course conditions. If you are a steeper player that takes big divots, you may want to consider at least one high bounce wedge. If you are a shallow player that takes little to no divot, you may want to consider having at least one low bounce wedge. Firm conditions and less sand in bunkers require low bounce wedges. Medium to soft conditions and fluffy sand require wedges with high bounce. You will see a significant decline in performance on your wedges over time. Replace your wedges every 70 rounds that you play. For the golfer that plays regularly, that comes out to about every 18 to 24 months.

GOLF TIP: HYBRID CHIP

When you have a low chip and run shot, you will want to consider chipping with your hybrid. With a hybrid, there is a reduced chance of hitting the shot fat or thin. Consider this shot when the ball is close to the green and a lie of fairway grass or the first cut of rough. There is a lot more roll out with this shot. To hit the hybrid chip, use your putting stroke. The ball will be popped into the air and rolling like a putt up onto the green. Your shoulders will move the club back and through. Have a steady head and quiet hands for a good hybrid chip. Practice this shot before taking it to the course. It will take some practice to hit this shot the correct distance.
